Dr. William Makis (<http://makismd.substack.com/>) prezintă 72 de cazuri tragice recente de studenți care au dezvoltat cancere agresive după ce au fost forțați să primească vaccinul ARNm COVID-19 pentru a putea merge la cursuri.

Raportul despre cele 72 de cazuri (http://vigilantnews.com/post/oncologist-late-stage-cancers-are-devastating-students-after-college-vaccine-mandates?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email), publicat de Vigilantnews, prezintă cancere turbo (galopante) dezvoltate la studenți cu vârsta între 18 și 24 de ani în 2023. Acesta este doar o mică mostră din miile de povești tragice care există.

Spencer aged 24 and the love of his life Tina aged 21 got married on July 22 2023 after a 7 year deep relationship that led to their wonderful marriage. While they were on their honeymoon they rushed home to go to the ER due to stomach pains. The pains were thought to be maybe indigestion or perhaps just drinking a bit too much at the wedding festivities. It was less than a week later when they were given a possible Lymphoma diagnosis...but his symptoms just weren't looking like Lymphoma as only a short time passed by. The young couple met with the oncologist at Grand River Hospital to find out that Spencer has a very rare type of Cancer called Desmoplastic Small Round Cell Tumour. Because of the rarity of this type of Cancer, there are not many doctors that know about this Sarcoma so the prognosis is hard to determine there is no cure. 21 Year Old Battling Stage 3 Cancer

Alesia Lockhart is organizing this fundraiser.

She was a young woman on her way to a productive life and at this young age she very well should have been. Directly after graduating high school, she enlisted in the U.S. National Guard Reserve where she has now been placed on medical leave.

In May 2023 after weeks of suffering from chronic migraines, severe nausea and whole body pain she was diagnosed with Rhabdomyosarcoma. Rhabdomyosarcoma is a rare type of cancer that forms in soft tissue or sometimes hollow organs. It can occur at any age, but it mostly affects children. Soon after, she started intense chemotherapy at Ochsner Pediatric Cancer Center of New Orleans, Louisiana. After rounds and weeks of treatment, Hailey Pressnell is organizing this fundraiser.

Hello,

I'm a 22-year-old who was on the cusp of an exciting new chapter before life took an unexpected turn. This summer was meant to be the culmination of my master's degree journey, and I had exciting plans to move to New Zealand in September 2023 to embark on a new adventure. A job at a geotechnical engineering firm awaited me, promising a future full of possibilities.

Then came August, a month that changed everything. I was confronted with a diagnosis that none of us ever anticipates – malignant melanoma (skin cancer). Immediate surgery was required, leading to two wide excision surgeries on my back and a sentinel lymph node biopsy, during which two of my lymph nodes were removed. The results were not what I had hoped for – one of those lymph nodes tested positive for melanoma, indicating that the cancer had already begun to spread.

At the moment, I'm facing the challenges of Stage 3B skin cancer, a reality that has put a pause on life. Instead of gearing up for exciting endeavors, I find myself navigating the complexities of treatments, uncertainty, and medical bills.

Student told he has weeks to live after going to A&E with lower back pain

University student Dylan Lamb, 20, thought he had pulled a muscle when he complained of back pain, but was later told he had just weeks to live

A student has been told he has weeks to live after going to A&E suffering lower back pain.

Dylan Lamb, 20, first noticed the problems in April last year but thought he had just pulled a muscle.

After getting pain killers from his GP, he went to A&E with his mum, Kim, at the end of the month after the pain became "unbearable".

Days later, he was having chemotherapy after being diagnosed with Precursor T-Cell Acute Lymphoblastic Leukaemia Dylan's girlfriend, Phoebe Cole, said: "He had this lower back pain that could have been multiple different things, he thought he had pulled a muscle. We were coming home for Easter and it got progressively worse, he lost his appetite and was being sick.

Possible life-saving treatment in America could cost up to £500,000 (Image: Phoebe Cole)

Following a change in chemotherapy, Dylan was told he was in remission on July 5, 2022. A donor was found and Dylan underwent a stem cell transplant on September 22 and 23 before being discharged on October 6.

Soon after, Dylan began feeling "normal again" and returned to university. But in June this year he started to feel the pain in his lower back once again.

"Literally two weeks ago the lower back pain came back and he said he knows this pain and it felt familiar," Phoebe explained.

"He went back to his doctors at Nottingham City Hospital and asked them to check him over.

"A blood test showed nothing and he went home. He admitted himself into hospital as he wanted an MRI, it showed nothing, and he had another blood test on June 29 which showed his blood cells were inclined.

"He was told the Leukaemia has come back and he has weeks or months left to live. It was a massive shock to the system, especially as we had been told he was fine, not fine and fine again.

"His family are amazing and are supporting him. He is keeping his sense of humour and is being really up beat, but I know deep down he must be scared."

Dylan's only option for life-saving treatment is a clinical trial in America which would involve CAR T Therapy and Base Editing where the DNA of T cells are taken from the donor and re-engineered so they attack only the Leukaemia and not each other.

Samantha Shebib is organizing this fundraiser on behalf of Michael Beck.

Created September 13th, 2023 •  Medical

Hi, my name is Dr. Samantha Shebib and I'm a professor in communication at The University of Alabama at Birmingham. Lauren was a previous student of mine, where she took 3 classes of mine within the first 2 years of my employment at UAB. Lauren graduated in the Spring semester of 2023. On August 27th, 2023, Lauren was experiencing some symptoms and went to emergency room in Tuscaloosa, Alabama (where her family resides). By Monday, August 28th she was transferred to UAB hospital. After having a bone marrow biopsy, Lauren was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukemia. She has started 24/7 chemotherapy treatment to see how aggressive the blood cancer is.

Jada Beating Glioblastoma

Tiffany Douglas is organizing this fundraiser.

Hello Family, Friends, and kind-hearted individuals who extend their compassion.

We are reaching out to you with heavy hearts but also with hope, for the life of Jada Nowell.

On May 17th, Jada got some really tough news - she found out she had a brain tumor. Just two weeks before that, she started having really bad headaches and couldn't keep any food down. She went to the emergency room, but they thought it was just a bad case of the flu. Even though she kept feeling awful, the doctors initially thought it wasn't anything serious. But when her symptoms didn't get better, she went back to the ER.

On June 8, 2023, she had the surgery, and just a week later, she got more tough news - the tumor was a type called glioblastoma. It's a really serious kind of brain cancer. While Jada was trying to get back to her normal routine of walking and enjoying life, those nasty headaches came back. While she was waiting for a chance to be part of a clinical trial at Duke, which is one of the best hospitals for treating brain cancer, she got even more devastating news - the tumor was starting to grow back.

And then, on August 24th, Jada had to go through another surgery. Right now, she's in the ICU, fighting hard. Let me tell you, Jada is one of the strongest young ladies I've ever known. She's not giving up, and her whole family is right there with her, supporting her every step of the way. That's where you come in.

Dear Friends, Family, and Supporters,

We are reaching out to you today with heavy hearts and a deep sense of urgency. Our beloved student, Kenneth Reidenbach, a 2023 high school graduate, has recently been diagnosed with brain cancer, and his journey towards recovery has been nothing short of a roller coaster. We are rallying together to support Kenneth and his family during this incredibly challenging time.

Kenneth's diagnosis came as a shock to all of us. The doctors discovered a significant mass on his brain that required immediate attention. He underwent not one, but two grueling surgeries, each lasting more than 6 hours. Thankfully, the skilled medical team was able to remove approximately 95% of the tumor, but the battle is far from over.

Help Hannah Beat Cancer!

Hannah Crow is organizing this fundraiser.

Many of our friends and family know that in February 2023, Hannah was diagnosed with an aggressive form of stage 4 Hodgkin's Lymphoma at 21. We wanted to share her story in hopes of some financial help for her medical bills if it's something you are able to.

A little bit about Hannah is that she is an undergraduate student at St. Lawrence University (SLU) located in upstate NY with a full-ride as a Monumentum Scholar. She loves to learn and is on track to graduate Magna Cum Laude (majoring in philosophy and double minoring in education and gender/sexuality studies). Despite challenges, Hannah has thrived at SLU, and during her time there, she's served as an Education Office Aide, Community Mentor, 3-year Orientation Leader, Newspaper Staff Writer, Class 2023 President, and, recently, as the University's Student Body President. To our surprise, Hannah was doing this all while

Hi guys I wanted to shed some light on my younger sister Dani's situation. In February of 2023 she was diagnosed with Cervical Cancer that has spread over 4 large areas of her cervix. Dani is a full-time college student seeking out Optometry, a dog mom of three, employee to an amazing eye doctor, a girlfriend, and full-time family member. My goal for my sister is to be able to fight through these ongoing surgeries and treatment plan without drowning in hospital bills and risking denial of further treatment she needs due to lack of funding. This is never easy for anyone to ask for help but we do believe in community and the strength that will bring her to beat this cancer. This is a time for fighting, healing and grieving as Dani has been stripped of making some big decision for herself and her future. Getting support for her medical bills, upcoming surgeries and treatment is crucial to her quality of life. Thank you for the genuine love, prayers and support it is invaluable as she is

The Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha are raising money for our brother, Caleb Bowser, who was recently diagnosed with Lymphoma. We are hoping for a quick and easy recovery for our brother Caleb as he is in our thoughts and prayers.

Seth Bowser (Caleb's brother) - First, from my family and I, we would like to extend a large thank you to Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha for arranging this go fund me on Caleb's behalf. What started as a bacterial infection in Caleb's throat quickly escalated into a larger situation. Wednesday July 19th, Caleb was diagnosed with Large B-Cell Non-Hodgkins lymphoma. He has two tennis size masses in his chest/lung region and cancerous activity in both the abdomen and left thigh area. Additionally there is abnormal levels of fluid surrounding his heart. We are blessed with the detailed care from the Holy Cross Medical Facility. We are treating this aggressive type of cancer with aggressive in hospital chemotherapy treatments. Caleb is a high character, high quality, caring individual. As a brother, son, mentor and friend; he's always willing to lend a helping hand. Caleb is in positive spirits and we are proud of how he is handling this so far. With six specialists and departments working on this case, medical expenses and other fees are and will add up. All donations are highly appreciated, whether $1, 5, 10, 20 or more. I hope to personally thank each one of you one day. Positive spirits. prayers and or more hope to personally thank each one of you one day. Love, hugs, prayers and smiles sent are way also make a huge difference ! Caleb is not only my brother, but he's my best friend. I am not going to leave his side through this journey. We will get through this together. I could not sum this up and agree any better than the words from Caleb, "F cancer, but this isn't stopping me". Big thank you to everyone

The tightly-knit community of Baltinglass was plunged into sadness this week when news broke that popular local teenager Pauric Brady died on Wednesday night aged just 18, after a short battle with cancer.

The son of Avril and Martin Brady, and older brother of Ronan, Pauric was deeply engrained in the Baltinglass community, leaving an indelible mark on students and faculty at his former school Scoil Chonglais, as well as Baltinglass GAA and Baltinglass Town AFC - with whom Pauric had been a player, coach and cherished friend.

The Bradys' world was flipped upside down last December when they were informed that Pauric, who turned 18 last November, had been diagnosed with a rare form of cancer. After further tests, the devastated family were told that the cancer had spread and was terminal.

Aidan's cancer story:

It came out of nowhere, or so it seemed. The few symptoms he had up until this point were so minute that they raised no major red flags. Nothing that would prepare us for... this. It was three short weeks ago, June 24th to be exact, when I accompanied Aidan to the ER for what we thought was a kidney infection, or stones, or something to that effect. The world basically stopped moving when those CT results came back conclusive and we heard that dreaded word "cancer". They found a very large mass over Aidan's right kidney. It shocked the ER doctors, and as of course, that Aidan was in as little pain at that point and had so few symptoms. The hospital then referred us to Oncology. From there we learned the cancer had spread to his IVC vein and surrounding lymph nodes. At the same time, Aidan's pain started settling in so the doctor ordered a bone scan. That's when things started taking a turn for the worse and became really scary. They found cancer in all of his bones... unbelievably meaning Aidan is in stage 4. It's been an absolute whirlwind ever since. All the symptoms are now hitting him at once. He's been in extreme pain, experiencing nausea and some vomiting, has little appetite and was losing weight rather rapidly. Just a really sick guy overall recently. He's currently inpatient at Children's hospital as they run a battery of tests and scans and try to get his pain down to a manageable level. It's been a really tough few weeks for Aidan and his family, however, we all remain optimistic and positive that Aiden can and will beat this. We do know we have a long, hard road ahead of us, but Aiden is who I call my "overcomer". This kid has been through so much in his 19 years and has used every obstacle and every setback along the way to only better himself. Aiden's birth mom wasn't in the picture much when he was younger due to drug abuse and now sadly, has passed away in 2022. His father has been rather absent and negligent himself the past several years also due to drug abuse. Despite having to grow up fast and with little guidance from his birth parents, Aiden has grown into the most amazing young man. He has this huge heart and is always quick to help those in need around him. He's a gifted student, making honor roll in high school and now excelling in college his first year at Mount Saint Joseph University, despite having to work 30 hours a week at the same time to support himself fully. He's responsible and independent, signing his first lease a few weeks ago with a buddy of his to get their first apartment. He was in his element and absolutely thriving.
